The F-35 Joint Strike Fighter program has been a disaster. The program has been plagued by delays, cost overruns, and technical problems. The F-35 is also more expensive than originally planned, and it is not as capable as originally promised.

The American Gripen is a more affordable, more capable, and more reliable alternative to the F-35. The Gripen is a fourth-generation fighter jet that is designed to be agile, versatile, and affordable. The Gripen is also combat-proven, and it has been used by the Swedish Air Force for over 20 years.

The F-35 Nightmare

The F-35 program has been plagued by problems from the start. The program was originally supposed to cost $233 billion, but the cost has now ballooned to over $1.5 trillion. The program has also been delayed by years, and the F-35 is still not fully operational.

In addition to the cost overruns and delays, the F-35 has also been plagued by technical problems. The F-35 has been grounded on multiple occasions due to safety concerns. The F-35 has also been criticized for its poor performance in air-to-air combat.

The American Gripen Solution
